Another man whom he suggested that we see is John J. (Jack) Mc Garry, a private watchman, of 17 Senior Street; also James Glynn, a colored man, whose wife at one time washed for Mrs. Revolinsky. He is supposed to know Mrs. Gibson very well. I am endeavoring to get a line on where this man might be located at the present time. Revolinsky had a brother, who at one time, was a Court interpreter here in New Brunswick, and at one time when Mrs. Gibson was interested in some case that was being tried, she endeavored to have Revolinsky misinterpret what the witnesses were saying so as to bring about a result favorable to herself. Revolinsky's brother is now at the Bonnie Burns Sanitarium, near Plainfield, N. J. I have referred the Mc Garry matter and the Revolinsky matter to Mr. Purdy for him to follow up.

Yours truly,

David Thompson.
